Our 1996 Dedication . . .

Coahoma County Board of Supervisors

The administration, faculty, students, and alumni of Coahoma Community College and Agricultural High School are grateful to the Coahoma County Board of Supervisors — Mr. Coleman Allen, Mr. Jim Humber, III, Mr. Taylor Flowers, Mr. Eddie C. Smith, Mrs. Katherine Young Furr, and the Coahoma County Administrator Hugh Jack Stubbs — for their unwavering concern, unrelenting devotion and unequivocal support to the cause of education at Coahoma Community College and Agricultural High School.

Throughout the tenure of the Board, members have manifested a commitment to the preservation, growth and development of the institution so that it may remain preeminent. Because of their sensitiveness to the needs of the institution and their willingness to provide resources, we forge our role into the twenty-first century.

The Coahoma Community College and Agricultural High School family recognizes the outstanding services the Board has rendered to the institution; and, in appreciation for their dedication, cooperation, loyalty and, most of all, their friendship, we gratefully dedicate our 1996 Coahoma in their honor.

State Representative Patricia Miller was the 1995 Commencement speaker for the 98 seniors at Coahoma Agricultural High School.

The ceremony took place at the Pinnacle on the campus of Coahoma Community College and Aggie High School.

Featured graduates will be valedictorian Eon Reggans and salutatorian Milisha Hart.

Miller, a Walls Legislator, first gained election to the Mississippi House in 1992. She represents portions of DeSoto, Tunica, and Coahoma counties.

Superintendent Presley, Representative Miller, Principal McBride

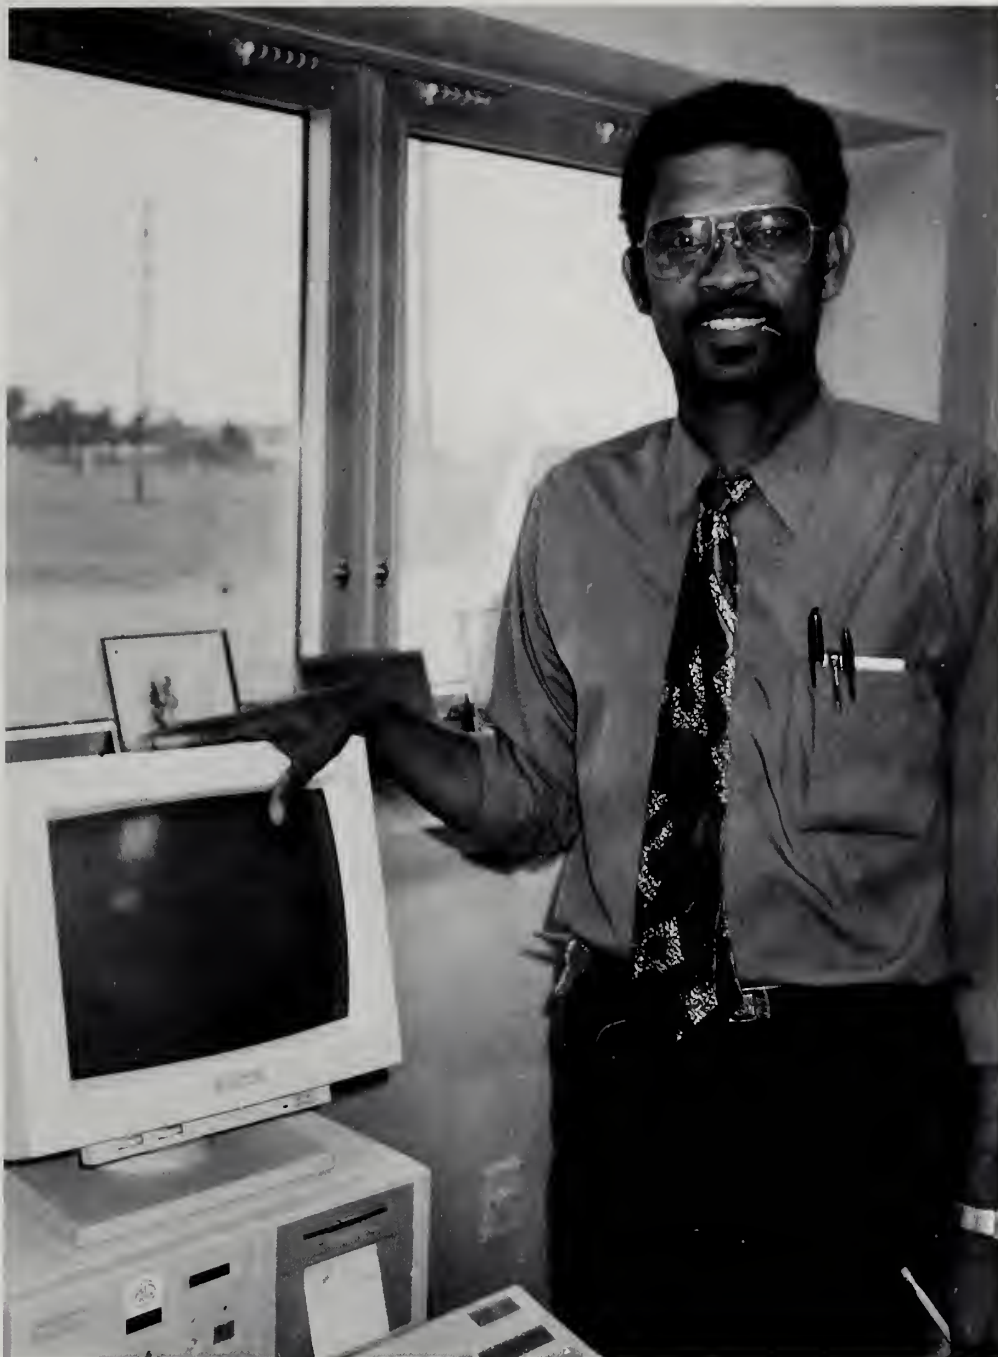

Rep. Miller serves on House committees for apportionment and elections; agriculture, conservation and water resources, municipalities; and investigation of state offices. She serves as secretary for the last two.

In the Legislature she has co-sponsored laws for lobby reform, creating scholarships for Mississippi students, and she was instrumental in the passage of legislation to provide Coahoma Community College with its own district.

Guests enjoy the reception before the Commencement exercises.

Academics

Social Purposes — Only one aspect of schooling our children. The hope of improving society through public schooling has almost become an article of American faith. Horace Mann believed it was the key to all social problems. He argued that past societies had experimented with different forms of government and laws in an attempt to stop crime and that they had all failed. The answer, Mann said, was in the proper training of young children so that they would not desire or perform criminal acts. Mann even suggested with a certain amount of utopian hope that America might see the day when the training of the schoolhouse would no longer make it necessary to enforce the law.

The idea of using the school as a means of social control was first explicitly stated by American sociologist Edward Ross in the 1890's. Ross referred to education as an inexpensive form of police. He divided social control into external and internal forms. Traditionally, he argued, internal forms of control had centered on the family, the church, and the community. The family and church had worked on the child to inculcate moral values and social responsibility to ensure social stability and cohesion. In modern society, Ross declared, the family and church were being replaced by the school as the most important institution for instilling internal values. Ross saw reliance on education as a means of control becoming characteristic of America society. More and more, the school was taking the place of the church and the family. "the ebb of religion is only half a fact," Rose wrote. "The other half is the high tide of education. While the priest is leaving the civil service, the schoolmaster is coming in. As the state shakes itself loose from the church, it reaches out for the school."

Completing the Dream

Buffye Lynn Chapman is crowned Miss Coahoma Community College on Thursday, October 18, 1995.

The coronation is one of many homecoming activities in Clarksdale on the CCC campus leading up to the football game on Saturday.

At halftime of the game, CCC Homecoming Queen LaTonya Williams is crowned.

On Saturday at 11 a.m., the annual homecoming parade is held on campus with a pep rally to follow.

The Royal Dance With Special Entertainment

Queen Buffye and Mother

Buffye Lynn Chapman is the daughter of Mrs. Linda Chapman and the late Henry Chapman. She is the second of two daughters and one son.

Buffye is a 1994 honor graduate of Clarksdale High School. Some of her honors there included being nominated into the Hall of Fame and the National Honor Society. She was also chosen 1993-1994 Homecoming Queen by her peers.

Presently, she is a sophomore Elementary Education major maintaining a GPA above 3.5. She is a member of the Education Club and a Phi Theta Kappa inductee.

Buffye is a member of Friendship A.M.E. Church, where she often delivers the announcements on fourth Sundays.

After graduating from Coahoma, she plans to further her education at Jackson State University. One of her major goals in the future is to become a clinical psychologist.

Homecoming Cook-Out . . .

Coahoma Community College 1995-96 Who's Who

The 1996 edition of Who's Who Among Students of American Junior and Community Colleges will include the names of students from Coahoma Community College who have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of the CCC students based on achievement, service to community, leadership on extracurricular activities, and potential for continued success.

These students join the elite group of students from more than 1400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, District of Columbia, and several foreign countries.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Rose slowly, slowly,
Dimming,
Hiding,
The light of my dream.
Rose until it touched the sky —

Clubs and Organizations

CCC Preparing to Cross The Threshold of Time

Clubs and Organizations Preparing for the 21st Century

The sponsors of the organization are preparing students for the future by helping students to learn about the business world now and in the 21st Century. The sponsors are Mrs. Steward and the entire business department.

Phi Beta Lambda, a national collegiate business organization, is integral part of the business department. The purpose of the organization is to provide students a chance to learn first-hand about the business community. Organizational goals include (1) to develop leadership experience that will enable students to participate effectively in business, professional, and community life; (2) to offer an insight into and provide an opportunity for participating in the decision-making process; (3) to aid in the selection of a field of vocation specialization; (4) to engage in projects that will strengthen students' background in the area of business; (5) to develop loyalty to the school and for the democratic way of life; (6) to broaden students' understanding of business and its complexities; and (7) to promote scholarships.

Sponsors of this club are preparing the minds of students to meet the challenges of the 21st Century. The sponsors are Mr. Green, Mr. Towner, Ms. Furage, and Mr. Ellis.

Science and Mathematics

The Science and Mathematics organization is composed of science, computer science and mathematics majors and other students who are interested in the objectives of the club.

The objectives of this club are to help each member develop a sense of responsibility and a more cooperative attitude through group participation; to help each member learn to interpret and analyze the issue of science and mathematics; to help each member learn to do critical thinking; and to encourage research in the sciences and mathematics and present seminars.

Sponsors of this club are preparing the members for the future by bringing the past and present together. The sponsors are Mrs. Reid, Mr. Wade, Mr. Pitts, Ms. Woods, and the entire Social Science department.

Social Science Club

The weekly forums under the sponsorship of the Social Science department provide the opportunity for students to make use of current reading materials in discussing vital social problems.

The Social Science department not only prepares students for the 21st Century but it also works diligently in sponsoring entertainment, social interactions of students with the students (children) in Tiny Tiger. They sponsor activities during each major holiday.

The sponsors of the VICA Club are responsible for preparing students to meet the challenges of the 21st century. The sponsors are Mr. Campbell and all instructors in vocational education.

VICA is the official student organization for those individuals enrolled in trade, industrial, technical, and training programs. As an integral part of the instructional program, the club activities that are planned, initiated, and conducted by members help the students develop social and leadership abilities as well as occupational skills. All vocational and technical students are expected to be "active" and "supportive" in club activities.

Members of the Student Government Association are the student leaders of the campus. They help to encourage other students to develop leadership qualities necessary to be contributing members of society. Officers and members include Floyd Luster, Jr., President, secretary, Amanda Jackson, Buffye Chapman, Termeria Thomas, and Kamara Washington.

The purpose of the Student Government Association is to serve as a liaison between the administration, faculty, staff and student body. It provides for student participation in school government, establishes better student-teacher relationship, affords training in citizenship, and insures a sincere respect for the aims and objectives of Coahoma Community College.

The sponsors of the Black Literary Society are responsible for enlightening the minds of students about their heritage from the past to the future. The sponsors are Mrs. Wanda Reed and the entire English department.

This is an informal organization open to all students especially English majors, who are interested in the works of Black authors. The society sponsors presentations which emphasize oral interpretation of Black poetry. The society also has a speech chour which takes part in the presentations.

More than 250 juniors and seniors from 19 area high schools listened to career advice from more than 20 women in various professional fields at the Fourth Annual Women in Science and Technology Conference at Coahoma Community College last week.

"Mastering Today's Technology for Tomorrow's Careers" was the theme utilized throughout the conference, with speakers from throughout the state and California focusing on education and technology in the various fields of politics, health, engineering, telecommunications, and computers.

Members of the Clarksdale/Coahoma County Business and Professional Women's Club helped young participants focus their sights on education and hard work, as local BPW members spoke in the Opening Session or presided as panelists during the conference.

CCC's Presley excited about prospect of district

BY BRANNON WILLIAMS
Staff Writer

Coahoma Community College could be looking at a much more stable financial future thanks to a recent bill passed by both houses of Congress.

Senate Bill 2409 would give CCC its own junior college district, if it receives approval by the governor.

The establishment of a district would guarantee the college funding from the counties that would be a part of the district, according to CCC president Dr.

Vivian Presley.

This bill creates the district out of Coahoma, Tunica, Quitman, Bolivar, and Tallahatchie counties.

"In the past, we have had to rely on the voluntary contributions of area counties to stay funded," stated Presley. "This bill is so important to our financial stability."

Presley also explained that without having its own district, CCC has never had a college code.

"It was unable to be referred to as Coahoma Community College, but was called 'the establishment in the County of Coahoma by the Mississippi River.'

"This will finally give us an identity and a name," she said.

Coahoma is the only one of the state's 15 junior colleges that does not have an official district.

The formation of a district for CCC has probably taken so long due to segregation, Presley speculates.

"CCC was first set up as a college for black students," said Presley. "We really had no legal protection."

But all that will change if the bill is signed by the governor.

"I am very optimistic and excited," she said. "This will be a history-making event."

cation," said state Rep. Pat Miller to the opening session audience.

Lady Tigers make Top 20

The Coahoma Community College Lady Tigers have broken into the Top 20 at the final spot among the nation's women's junior college basketball team.

CCC, 11-2, is the only Mississippi women's team ranked among the country's 1,500 two year colleges. The Northwest Mississippi Community College Rangers made the men's ranking at the number 11 spot.

Coahoma, which has not played since early December, will tip off in a Tuesday night affair against East Mississippi at home followed by a road trip to Mississippi Delta on January 18.

The teams return home January 25 against Itawamba and January 27 in the Annual Homecoming tilt against Hinds-Utica.

Former Lady Tiger Tonya Norment, who was second in the nation in scoring last year with a 33.1 scoring average at Coahoma, is featured in today's Clarion Ledger. According to the paper, Norment, a junior is leading the Southwest Athletic Conference with a 20.0 average.

Playing for Jackson State University, she is credited with sparking the Tiger offense leading the team in scoring, three point shots made, and free throws made.

Cable TV arrives at CCC campus

Special to the Press Register

Cable has come to Coahoma Community College through a new link with Cablecom of Clarksdale.

The CCC student body now has the luxury of cable in each dormitory room and in the classroom for instructional purposes.

The dream come true got its start in August 1994 from an idea of two CCC employees working at the Skill/Tech and Industrial Training Center.

Charles White, industrial coordinator, and Betty Lynn Hunt, work force specialist, brought their idea of cable on campus to the attention of John Busby, general manager of Cablecom.

"We thought it would be an added asset to the college if students could actually have their own cable in the dorm rooms," said White of he and Hunt's collaboration.

Claudia Gooden, dean of student affairs at CCC who coordinates extracurricular activities at the college, was thrilled at the thought of adding something that would entertain students living on campus.

Dr. Vivian M. Presley, president of CCC, also was delighted with the idea.

"Not only can our students be entertained by this cable system, but there is a world of educational opportunities at our fingertips because of the addition of cable to the campus," Presley said.

The cable venture cost $55,591, Busby said.

From the initial idea in August 1994, Busby said he had to write the project into the 1995 budget for approval, then await the added materials needed to begin the work.

"Once we got everything going, it took us about three months to complete it," Busby said of the two miles of "plant" cable it took to reach the college and the additional 30,000 feet of drop cable.

Busby's six-man technical staff did all the cable work and an outside contractor wired the dorms for cable.

Sports

“CCC, Preparing to Cross The Threshold of Time”

Football 1995 As Seen By Coach Eubanks

Coach Eubanks speaks about his feelings about the 1995 football team. "I feel like this will be the best bunch of student-athletes Coahoma Community College has put on the field in some time. These men are disciplined students and from all indications are disciplined players."

Early in the season, those were the words of head coach Melvin Eubanks as he described the impressions of his ball club. With new rules in effect in the Mississippi Community College Athletic Association, Coach Eubanks was looking at barely two weeks of practice before this home opener August 21 against South Division powerhouse Jones Junior College.

"Across the board," says Eubanks, "these players as students average over 17 on their ACT college entrance exams. Most of their parents are professionals. They come from families that have overcome obstacles, have endured, and meet challenges head on. Believe me, they will have to do all three to compete this year."

Last year's experienced laden team is gone. The entire offensive and defensive line graduated. Gone is a line that averaged 285 pounds, was quick, and held its own.

However, back are the skilled people around which Coach Eubanks, Coach Alvin Jackson, and Coach Valmadge Towner hope to build a team that will better last year's 2-7-1 mark.

Purvis Jackson will get the starting call quarterback. Jackson has a rough first half last season after replacing an injured Jamahl Burns, but came on strong at the end both in his passing and his field leadership.

"Purvis is a quarterback's quarterback," says Coach Eubanks. "If you saw him on campus, you couldn't tell he was a starting quarterback let alone a ball player. He's kind of shy, hits the books, and spends a lot of time to himself. When he crosses that sideline, you know he's in charge. I think he'll mature this year into one of the top three or four quarterbacks in the state."

The Tigers look to ground out some yards, too, this season. Jackson will be handing off to Moses Cody, returning for his second year. Cody led the team with 572 yards rushing last year, with a couple of hundred yard games, and five scores.

"We look for bigger things from Moses. He had a good line last year, but even though we may be smaller this year (on the line), we think Moses will turn up for us. He's going to be a factor on the ground that should improve our passing game."

"Across the board," says Eubanks, "these players as students average over 17 on their ACT college entrance exams."

—Coach Eubanks—

When the Tigers do pass, they'll go to a trio of returning starters. Tyrone Richardson, Tyron Smith, and Danielle Shepard, last year's team leaders in receiving will see a lot of action this year.

"Last year we had a line, this year we have backfield and receivers. Who knows what we could do if we had both the same year. With a few breaks, with; the talent we have, we could break a few games loose. If we throw as much as we have in the past, I believe our receivers will end up with some pretty impressive stats, and we'll end up with a pretty impressive record."

"The Tigers are young, but practices have been going real good," says Coach Eubanks. "There are a lot of positions open, and these first year players are fighting for them. On both sides of the lines, we'll see a lot of new faces. We're only going to average about 265. I hope the enthusiasm these freshmen are over into our first game."

The Tigers got some talent in the recruiting season. Coach Eubanks says he signed about 15 players from Coahoma Agricultural High School. All were starters and saw a lot of action. He also has Coahoma County's Marcus Hodges who will probably get the nod at linebacker.

With one defensive starter returning in the person of John Smith, Eubanks says, "It's a rebuilding year."

"I just believe we can win more than two games this year," the coach emphasizes. We have a good core of returning skill players who know Coahoma's record, who won some games last year, and who want to go out winners this year. If they show our new people some leadership, I expect them to get what they want."

from Ecclesiastes

To every thing there is a season,

And a time to every purpose under the heaven:

A time to be born, and a time to die;

A time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

A time to kill, and a time to heal;

A time to break down, and a time to build up;

A time to weep, and a time to laugh;

A time mourn, and a time to dance;

A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together;

A time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;

A time to get, and a time to lose;

A time to keep, and a time to cast away;

A time to rend, and a time to sew;

A time to keep silence, and a time to speak;

A time to love, and a time to hate;

A time of war, and a time of Peace.

Editor-In-Chief

Lola Breckenridge

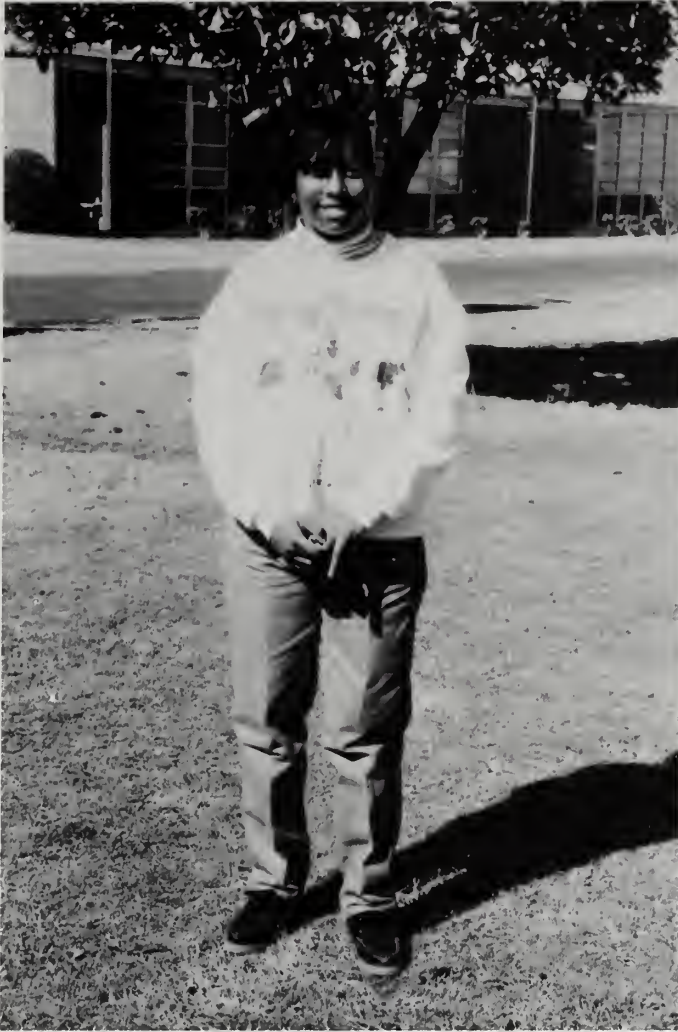

As another year climaxes, the Coahoma Yearbook staff completes another annual. The staff has tried to capture the academics and campus life here at Coahoma. We have also tried to embody the motions that have been made here at Coahoma in our theme, "CCC, Preparing To Cross The Threshold of Time." This year's ambition was to leave you with an annual that will bring you joy, pleasure, pride, and other memories that will continue into the 21st Century. So, I would like to take this time to thank you, the students, faculty, and the staff of Coahoma Community College, and especially our marvelous staff — Cynthia, Tamika, Kimbria, Cedric, Charles, Carla, Lillian, and Cleotha — for the long stimulating hours of work it took to make this year's Coahoman a success.

Special thanks to our advisor, Ms. Powell, who allowed us to use our imagination in putting this yearbook together and also our photographers, Mr. Mayo and Mr. Catchings.
